

Ana Polanco is an advisor and consultant to Futures Without Violence on "Workplaces Respond," a collaborative initiative to prevent violence facing vulnerable workers in the US. Ana works with organizations and individuals to strengthen and advance purpose driven missions. With over eighteen years of experience working with international and domestic membership based organizations, Ana supports leaders to reimagine how their ideas can have social impact. Using a wide range of campaign, organizational development and coaching techniques, Ana guides leaders to develop values driven approaches to the change they want to create in the world.

Before becoming an independent consultant and professional certified coach, Ana had the privilege of working at Amnesty International USA, UNITE HERE International Union and the AFL-CIO's Labor Council for Latin American Advancement to elevate human rights and political issues facing workers and their families. Ana has been recognized for her efforts to advance worker's rights, advocate for gender and racial equality, expand support for immigration reform, and other important social causes.

Ana Polanco has a Bachelor's degree from American University in Washington, DC and a Juris Doctor from the University Of Wisconsin Law School in Madison. Ana is affiliated with Leadership That Works, The Social Transformation Project, Rockwood Leadership Institute and the Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute.
