

Pam Rosado is the community services coordinator for the United Labor Agency in Cleveland, Ohio, and works closely with the North Shore Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, and United Way of Greater Cleveland to increase labor unions' engagement in the community, coordinate community services and provide training and education to union members.

Pam brings powerful experience as an advocate and activist fighting for workers' rights and economic justice as Secretary/Treasurer and Political Director of the former Service Employees International Union, Local 47, which represented public and private sector workers in Ohio.

As Outreach Coordinator for Policy Matters Ohio, an Ohio-based non-profit, non-partisan policy research institute, Pam led the organization's coalition building and policy advocacy efforts and worked with the national think tank Demos in helping Ohioans understand the role that government and the economy play in our lives.

Pam currently serves on the Senior Transportation Connection Board, the Cuyahoga County Division of Senior and Adult Services Advisory Board Advocacy Committee, The Racial & Economic Justice Committee, AFL-CIO, as well as the Executive Boards of NARAL Pro-Choice Ohio Education Foundation, Cleveland Jobs with Justice, New Voices Cleveland, and Senior Voice Coalition. Pam is a member and steward of Office and Professional Employees International Union (OPEIU) Local 17, and a delegate to the North Shore Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.
